Nash Supports Housing Rehabilitation

To complement the demolition waiver authority which Councilman Troy Nash, 3rd District At-Large, fought so hard for last year, and to urge Land Trust to sell some less than desirable properties, the City needs the authority to abate taxes on that property for a period of years, according to the Councilman.

Nash said this would include property taxes and any improvements that have been completed by the City such as curbs and sidewalks. If the home owner is willing to step forward and take over a property, the City and Land Trust should meet them halfway.

"Now that we have the demolition waiver program in place, we need to go further and move many lots back to productive use. Illegal dump sites and havens for prostitution are not productive uses," said Councilman Nash.

"The change would essentially correct an improper reference and changes the requirement for the property to be held by the non-profit organization from one year to a time when rehabilitation is completed" Nash said.
